The director and staff are not only qualified in teaching the techniques of basketball, but in running a fine camp as well. The staff will be made up of outstanding high school coaches. Some college players will be used as counselors and instructors. We use enthusiastic high school coaches instead of looking for top name pro and college coaches who have little or no experience working with this age group of girls.

PURPOSE: To instill the confidence that all young athletes need in order to further their basketball aspirations. We consider this camp as an opportunity to improve through a combination of fundamental work combined with actual league games, which equal the experience of about half of an entire basketball season.
